Memory allotment of String

Whenever a String Object is created, two objects will be created- one in the Heap Area and one in the String constant pool and the String object reference always points to heap area object.

For example:

```
String str = "Geeks";
```